Massproductions' new MP Trolley is at your serve

MP Trolley - setting out to make serving a stylish matter of reduced effort. The new trolley by designer Chris Martin is compacted in a distinctly modernistic form and enters the room with appropriate finesse but never unnoticed.

“Truth said, it is quite difficult to comment much about this simple, well-designed trolley. Straight forward, I wanted to strip down the concept of the trolley to something that could simplify serving in private and public environments alike. My very first industrially produced design was in fact a tray table for IKEA back in 1998 and I just recently realized that a trolley would be a natural complement to our own collection”, says Chris Martin Head of Design at Massproductions.

The inspiration arrived from the interplay of geometrical shapes and spacing. Round as well as angular volumes meet in an elegant yet distinctively functional way. The construction is based on two larger trays attached to a simple stainless-steel frame. The former is available in a selection of different woods.
